DEDICATION

Miss Isabel Kagwin

A charming lady loved by young people throughout her forty-four years at Classical High School, for her quick wit and wise counsel is Miss Isabel M. Kagwin. After receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree from Mount Holyoke College, and teaching three years in Rockville, Connecticut, this fine teacher came to Classical High School, where for several years, she taught both mathematics and French. French being her principal interest, Miss Kagwin further studied the language at McGill University, Wellesley College, Columbia University, and at two summer sessions of L'Alliance Française in Paris, France.

As chairman of the modern language department for twenty-four years, this petite lady made even the most obstinate student almost enjoy menacing subjunctives and the partitive outline when studying under her supervision. More warm recollections include scenes of a hushed classroom with silence suddenly shattered by a sedate figure standing before a lanky gum-chewer quite gingerly admonishing the boy with a simple but meaningful, "Elmer!"

To a kind woman and a grand teacher, with "Three cheers and seventeen tigers", the Blue and White for 1957 is affectionately and gratefully dedicated to Miss Isabel M. Kagwin.

FOREWORD

The halls of Classical have often echoed with the patter of little paws. Stray mongrels frequently have to be ejected by the busy custodians. Whimsically we would like to suggest what a dog would think if he were allowed to spend a day in school.

In choosing "man's best friend" as the theme of our yearbook, we have attempted to convey our feelings of camaraderie and participation which we have experienced during these three short years.

With our dogs as guides we should like you to explore the halls and classrooms, to meet the administration and students of Classical High School and perhaps share our feelings of gratitude and, of course, regret for all that we are leaving. Yet, for all our experience gained and most of all for our warm memories of these years, there can be no regret. So, come with us now through the wide doors to Classical.

"ME AND MY BEST FRIEND."

Dr. Joseph N. Rodeheaver

In this, the first edition of the Blue and White published under the principalship of Dr. Joseph N. Rodeheaver, we should like to take this opportunity to welcome him. We feel that at this time it would also be appropriate to tell our readers a little about him.

Originally from Brookings, South Dakota, Dr. Rodeheaver spent his early years in Denver, Colorado. He later received an A.B. from the University of Illinois, an A.M. from Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and an Ed. D. from Harvard Graduate School of Education. A widely traveled man, Dr. Rodeheaver has taught in Florida, Wisconsin and in Brookline, Massachusetts from 1941 to 1954, a period interrupted by four years in the Navy. Engaged in various community activities, Dr. Rodeheaver is a member of the Wilbraham Country Club, the Wilbraham Square Dance Club, the Springfield Rotary Club and is in addition an active member of Faith Congregational Church. In the field of sports Dr. Rodeheaver is interested in golf, bowling, and swimming.

During 1954 through 1956, Dr. Rodeheaver served as assistant principal and in September, 1956 became principal. We have always found him a friend and willing adviser in addition to being an excellent administrator. Classical looks forward to many more years with Dr. Rodeheaver as Chief-of-State.

IN THE BEST CLASSICAL TRADITION
Dr. Rodeheaver also owns a dog, Merry by name.

Deadline tomorrow! Oh, my goodness! I had forgotten the feature article I had to write for the school newspaper. I had just a few hours to interview Mr. Hatch and write the article. In a flurry of excitement, I dashed down the hall, mentally outlining my article. Immediately, I arranged for an interview with Mr. Hatch. Mrs. Sheehan told me to take a seat as I would have to wait a few minutes. As I started to plan my questions, I realized that, although I saw Mr. Hatch practically every day, there wasn't too much I knew about him. Whenever I saw him, he was busily absorbed with one of his many duties. Mrs. Wright interrupted my thoughts by asking me to enter Mr. Hatch's tiny office. My eyes focused on a desk piled with papers and students' records. From behind the stack, Mr. Hatch's face peered. Sitting down, I plunged into my questions.

From our conversation, I obtained an insight into Mr. Hatch's multifarious activities. He spends most of his spare time — little that he has — with his family. He also enjoys puttering around the house. Bozo, the family dog, is a delightful amusement for everyone. Moreover, it is very evident that Mr. Hatch has a genuine love for his job, for he emphasized his desire to help troubled students.

When the interview was completed, I realized Mr. Hatch's unusual ability to do many difficult jobs with ease.

Needing a copy of my record as the mascot of Classical High School, I meandered down the corridor to room 107. Here, Mrs. Mary Sheehan and Mrs. Barbara Wright perform the secretarial work for Classical High School. After a chat with the secretaries I found out to my chagrin that it is Miss Elizabeth Stone, who handles all the scholastic records of the students. I beat a hasty retreat to room 105 where Miss Stone paused in her work to help me. I was amazed at the tremendous amount of paper work she had to do. Having secured my record, I bounced out of the office, thinking with awe of the numerous jobs accomplished by the office staff.

READY TO ASSIST BEWILDERED STUDENTS are the counselors Miss Cornell, Mr. Finn, and Mrs. Bemis.

One day, overhearing some classmates talking about college boards, I decided to visit Miss Cornell and inquire about their importance. I stuck my nose in the office where, luckily, Miss Cornell was alone. She appeared rather startled to see a kerry blue strolling in the door. However, as soon as she recovered from her surprise, she smiled cordially and invited me to lie down beside her desk. After a friendly discussion, I skipped into Mr. Finn's office to inquire what chances I had for becoming the mascot of a college. Unfortunately, he was unable to answer my question. However, he did say that my chances were good because of my fine record at Classical. Bursting with pride, I marched down the hall. Because my nose was so high in the air, I almost collided with Mrs. Bemis. Her face was flushed with excitement and her hands were laden with papers. She stopped to tell me about the many opportunities for scholarships. As I trotted away, I couldn't help admiring the interest and enthusiasm the counselors have for their work.

THE ENGLISH TEACHERS

are Mr. Bernard Donnelly, Miss Ruth Cornell, Miss Christine Sauer, Mr. Edwin Smith, Miss Teresa Boylan, Mr. James McGuire, Miss Ruth Dickerman, Dr. Aileen O'Grady, and Mr. Donald Purcell.

ENGLISH

One day, during my leisure, I decided to roam down to Ed Smith's room to borrow a couple of good books. After hearing my request with a slight suggestion of a twinkle in his eye, he handed me a copy of "The Works of Plato." I looked at him quizzically, but accepted the book. Proceeding down the hall clutching my book tightly, I couldn't resist peeking into 227 where Dr. McGuire was expounding on one of his favorite subjects, Eustacia Vye. Lost in thought I continued my travels almost bumping into a moving stack of papers which turned out to be Dr. O'Grady, who had just finished collecting her freshman English class's notebooks. Reaching Mr. Purcell's room I found that genial gentlemen promising to give a carrot to any student who could define the word précis. Later, peering into Miss Dickerman's room, I found her deeply engrossed. Realizing that she didn't want to be disturbed, I slid down the railing to the first floor. I peeked into 122 where, amid the hubbub of the Blue and White homeroom, Miss Boylan was checking some graphs of the action in Macbeth. Leaving 122, I turned to the right and found Miss Sauer's room. That lady was dramatically describing her career as an exchange teacher. Later, I stopped to speak to Mr. Kinder about a course in study skills. Soon afterwards, I met Mr. Donnelly, who was rushing to his next class. Finally, I made my last stop at Miss Cornell's office. She encouraged my growing interest in literature. After meeting these fine teachers, I found my interest in literature greatly aroused.

OUR LANGUAGE TEACHERS

LANGUAGES

One day, Caniche, a cute little French poodle, whispered to me in a low, soft voice, "Je vous aime beaucoup." I smiled rather kindly and hoped that she was saying something complimentary. However, as soon as we parted company, I scampered down to Mrs. Smith's room to find out exactly what Caniche meant. Mrs. Smith persuaded me to take an elementary course in French so that I could converse with Caniche. Elated by this idea, I trotted into Miss Auger's room. She beguiled me with her fascinating anecdotes about the people, places, and dogs she had seen on her travels. However, Miss Auger had a stack of papers on her desk; so I did not detain her any longer. Peeking into Miss Shaffer's room, my interest was aroused by Miss Dean and Miss Shaffer who were playing an enthralling game of scrabble . . . in Latin. Overwhelmed by their ability, I slipped out of the room. In the hall, I passed Dr. Miller, his hands filled with a stack of Hebrew books. I smiled brightly and trotted away. Mrs. Corbin and Dr. Fredrick were deeply engrossed in talk when I noticed them in front of the teachers' exchange. They drew me into their conversation, which concerned foreign lands. Much to my regret I had to leave them soon, for Caniche was awaiting me.

MATHEMATICS

After several torturous hours of trying to make my budget balance, I decided to seek assistance from Mr. Smith of the math department. With a few deft strokes of his pencil Mr. Smith totaled all my columns and settled my accounts. Then and there I decided that I must take one of the excellent math courses offered at Classical. Since I was anxious to meet the other faculty members of the department, I took a whirlwind tour, meeting Mrs. Flanagan, Miss Marston, Miss Parkman, Mr. Jermakian, and Mr. O'Donnell. Mrs. Flanagan was buried deep in the midst of a cookbook, looking for a new and tempting recipe. Not wishing to disturb her, I tiptoed quietly out. In the hall, I met Miss Marston, who was busily rushing to a Red Cross meeting. I quickly jumped out of her way and trotted into Mr. Jermakian's room. He was thumbing through piles of envelopes, looking for different types of stamps. After talking with him about stamps and sports, I briskly scampered out of his room and down the hall. As I skipped along, who should I see but Mr. O'Donnell, armed with camera and film. He mentioned that after school he was planning to take some candid shots of Springfield. I hurried away, thinking what interesting teachers there are at Classical.

THE HISTORY TEACHERS

HISTORY

One day in my small, but comfortable, doghouse, the telephone rang shrilly. Startled, I answered quickly. A strange voice said, "For a prize of $1800 can you tell me the name of the president of the Confederacy?" Very sadly I replied, "I'm sorry. I don't know". Determined not to lose another such opportunity because of my lack of knowledge, I marched straight into Mr. Brown's room. With a very startled look, perhaps, because he was unaccustomed to talking with such a lovely kerry blue, he agreed to let me enter the course in American History, for he was much aggrieved with my ignorance. My interest in history awakened, I trotted out of the room to see Mr. Hargreaves. Mr.

Hargreaves and I had a fascinating discussion about the use of visual aids in teaching, after which I continued my travels. Seeing a young man with a shiny silver badge on his belt, I followed him to Mr. Campbell's lair, more commonly known as the headquarters of the Boys' Patrol. There I listened in on a sprightly discussion of European History. At the invitation of one of the students, I proceeded to a meeting of I.R.C. Here I found another member of the history department, Mr. Corbin. I was greatly impressed with Mr. Corbin's interest in world affairs and in young people. Later, back at my doghouse, I resolved to continue to discover more about history.

SCIENCE

"'Hot diggity dog diggity, boom . . . ' — whoops, sorry Mr. Lynch." "Perfectly all right, fat-head," muttered the chairman of the Science Department, as he headed into 324. Perhaps he was a bit startled at seeing a kerry blue in the ancient and dignified halls of C.H.S.; so I skipped after him and presumed to introduce myself. After a few minutes of small talk with Mr. Lynch, I followed my nose, and led by the horrible odor issuing from 321, I entered to find Mr. Oliver busily concocting a smoking potion in the chemistry lab. Much as I enjoyed conversing with Mr. Oliver, I retreated rather hastily and entered room 318 gasping for air. Miss Fitzgerald was most solicitous about my health, and offered to share her lunch of yogurt with me. I declined this honor, however, and chatted with Miss Battis. Then after waving hello to Mr. O'Donnell, as he hurried by with an armload of papers to be corrected. I traipsed down the hall thinking that Classical certainly is fortunate in having such unusual science teachers.

“Dog-trotting” down the third floor hall at Classical one day, I was intrigued by the buzz of activity in the art room. Under the supervision of Miss MacKenzie several aspiring young artists were busily working. From one of these future Renoirs I learned of the excellent opportunities for advanced study of art available in this department. I was

MUSIC

"Oh, where oh where has my little dog gone . . ." Passing room 101, I heard my favorite song being sung and, deciding to add my tenor to the harmony, I entered the music room. I was introduced to Mr. Warren Amerman, director of the vocal groups and string orchestra, who, I later learned, enjoys gardening, woodcarving, and drawing in addition to music. Becoming increasingly interested in the music department, I paid a visit to Mr. Vincent O'Keeffe, director of the band. Although his schedule is a busy one, Mr. O'Keeffe manages to spend some time as an amateur radio operator. After hearing some of the productions of the music department, I realized how fortunate Classical is in having two such remarkable teachers.

TYPING

A, semi, s, l, d, k f j — what in the world was that? A new language being taught at Classical? My curiosity aroused, I decided to investigate. Cautiously opening the door of room 118, I peered in. There was Miss Dorothy Porter instructing one of her typing classes. I knew how valuable a skill typing is when one of those long term papers was due. Talking to Miss Porter after class, I learned that besides traveling abroad, she is an avid bridge player. Later I remembered the many times I had seen Miss Porter directing the members of the Blue and White advertising staff, and I realized how much she contributes to Classical beyond her excellent teaching.

The Girls' Physical Education Teachers are Mrs. Miriam Andrewes and Miss Joan Mende.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Feeling a little out of condition, I decided to trot down to the gym for some stimulating exercise. Mr. Vaughn, teacher of Driver Education, was filling his pill-box in preparation for his long, exhausting day with would-be Classical drivers. Mr. Batt was talking with a group of broad-shouldered young fellows about football. Although the two men were busy, they stopped to chat with me. Fearing to keep them from their labors any longer, I tiptoed out of the room. When I stuck my little, wet nose into the girls' gym, Mrs. Andrewes and Miss Mende beamed joyously. Graciously, they invited me to enter. Miss Mende related many interesting anecdotes about her ski meets, and Mrs. Andrewes thrilled me with her tales of the beautiful places she had seen. Reluctantly, I withdrew from their office, admiring genial gym teachers of Classical High School.

THE LUNCHROOM LADIES who supervise Classical's kitchens are Greta Sanderson, Lilian Lambert, Louise Walker, Stella Gotsis, Suzan Hemsworth and Kathern Garneau.

Aroused by an intense pain in the pit of my stomach, I trotted down to the lunchroom for a dog biscuit. I was amazed by the hustle and bustle in the cafeteria. Everybody was busily preparing food. However, Mrs. Sanderson, taking pity on me, gave me a bite to eat and sent me on my way. As I was leaving, I paused to admire the neatness and cleanliness of Classical's cafeteria. On my way back to class, I spotted Mr. Eaton repairing a loose wall fixture. He glanced up and smiled. I waved gaily and proceeded down the hall. Just then the bell rang! I rushed back to class, barely managing not to collide with a cleaning lady who, equipped with duster, was walking rapidly through the hall. As I sank exhausted on the floor, I thought with pride of our capable lunchroom ladies and custodians.

SENIOR CLASS ADVISERS

As you, the members of the class of 1957, leave Classical to pursue the many goals chosen for your lives, I should like to commend to you a few lines found in a poem from the Sanskrit —

Look to this day!
For it is life, the very Life of Life.
In its brief course lie all the Verities and Realities of your existence —
The bliss of growth,
The glory of action,
The splendor of beauty;
For yesterday is but a dream
And tomorrow only a vision.
But today well-lived makes
Every yesterday a dream of happiness
And every tomorrow a vision of hope.
Look well, therefore, to this day!

My best wishes go with you wherever you may be.

TO THE CLASS OF 1957

I hadn't realized how important my own high school years were for me until last year when I came back to high school with you. I'm grateful to you for having helped me back so pleasantly on a voyage that in less tactful companionship might have been only tiring. Your task of helping me on the path to my past has been no less personal than mine of trying to help you approach your future. I shall be happy if time will show that I have learned from you something of the art of guiding.

Almost a century ago, Josiah Gilbert Holland, Springfield author and editor, wrote an appeal for citizens of fortitude and integrity to meet the problems of their times. In today's world of sudden tensions and narrowing horizons, Dr. Holland's stirring words have even greater cogency, and I commend his message to you, the graduates of Classical High School, 1957.

My hope is that, in the years ahead, each of you will, with unstinting sincerity and enthusiasm, devote your native abilities, your developing skills, and your Yankee ingenuity to the needs of your community and country to the end this world in which you are a vital part may be a better place for all to live.

CLASS MESSAGE

It is the glorious prerogative of youth to dream dreams, to build castles, and to live in the future. We, the class of 1957 are doubtless no exception. We leave this school with our hearts high with hope and our vision of the future bright. We take with us also memories of three happy years, years which we hope will bear fruit in the future according to what we have deserved in the past. Above all we remember with gratitude that these years have been made possible for us by our parents, our teachers, and our city. Some day we hope to repay them with more than gratitude, with some measure of accomplishment of which they and we may be proud.

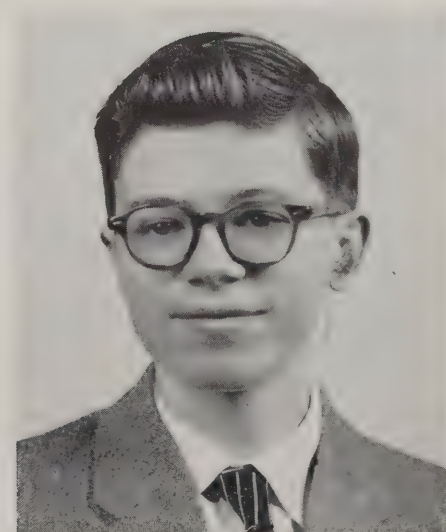

That all of our dreams come true may not be the kindest of wishes, rather let my wish be that life brings to each of us all that is finest and best, and when the shadows begin to lengthen, and our thoughts have a backward turn, may this year book bring to us only affectionate memories of Classical High School and our classmates of 1957.

Early in February, the officers of the Class of 1957 selected four seniors to serve as chairmen of graduation committees. These students, in turn, chose others whose interests and abilities would make their thinking valuable to their classmates. Furthermore, an effort was made by the chairmen and their faculty advisers to include every boy and girl in graduation planning. Most exciting of these final activities is the appearance of the Class Book published under the direction of Lois Stocks, general chairman. She has been ably assisted by Paul Rosenberg, chairman of the Will Group, and Robert Bontempo, Diane Drude, Suzanne Rasquin, and Alice Makara. Nancy Thompson chairs the History Committee, which has included Leone Casey, Sherry Mackie, Roberta Toomey, and Paul Beck. Under the direction of Brenda Miller, Carol Cruess, Suzanne Hurd, Patricia Grey, and Howard Temkin are writing the Prophecy. Everett Webb serves as general chairman of the Senior Prom, which was held on May 29. On the Arrangements Committee chaired by Cynthia Hall, Michael Cohen, Jacqueline Girard, Ronald Mullett, Marilyn Forziatti, and Marjorie Alsing worked faithfully. Members of the Decorations Committee included Ellin Ross, chairman, Judith Dorman, Patricia Dyer, Jon Vining, Patricia Lynch, Winifred Brandt, Floris Glater, Dorothy Johnston, William Fortier, and Diane Lindquist. Stoughton Smead, chairman of the Ticket Committee, was aided by Donna Ellsworth, Constance Ledger, Marilyn Lamson, Barbara Steinberg, Lewis Katz, Wendy Clark, Janet Wulff, and David Vaughn. Constance Bennett is chairman of the group which has planned the Class Banquet for June 4. Her assistants included Marsha Cohen, Pauline Cleary, Rhoda Kaplan, Burt Scannapieco, Donald Nash, and Alexander Zurowski.

June 6 will be Class Day, Meryl Metivier, chairman of the Class Day Committee has announced. With Meryl, James Catron, Leonard Schiller, Joan McCallin, Coralie Ahrens, and Hermine Van Derlick have been planning the events. The culmination of these festivities will be Graduation, June 10. Chairman, Carol Ducette, Barbara Katziff, Barbara Pottern, and Ina Skolnick comprise the Graduation Committee. Officers and assistants have worked diligently to make commencement memorable for Classical graduates of the Class of 1957.

Senior Class Activities chairmen, Meryl Metivier of the Class Day Committee; Everett Webb of the Senior Prom Committee; Lois Stocks of the Class Book Committee; Constance Bennett, Class Banquet Committee.

SUSAN BURACK
discusses the news columns with Michael Cohen, Patricia Wright, Constance Bennett, Rhoda Kaplan, and Barbara Suher.

Swishing down the second floor hall with the latest issue of the Recorder between my jaws, I met Karen Faulkner, Editor-in-Chief of that newspaper. "Say Karen, how about giving me an inside story on the Recorder staff?" "Sure," she answered, "First, let's meet 'Doc,' the adviser of the paper." Dr. McGuire told me that the Recorder, published ten times yearly, attempts not only to present an accurate coverage of school events, but also to give staff members a chance to express themselves on the editorial and feature pages.

Glancing around the paper strewn room, I saw Sue Burack and her news staff working frantically to meet the next deadline, while Noel Edelson and the editorial staff occasionally peered out from under their mounds of copy. In another corner of the room, Mike Kleinerman, George Torrey, and Dick Gordon were huddled over their sports column, "All In the Game." Dottie Johnston and Rocky Solin then burst into the room with a few exciting bits of news for their column, "As We See It." At their heels came Bob Glass, shouting, "Pax," and madly waving the copy for his amusingly satirical column, the "Glass Menagerie." After reading that hilarious column, "Jest for the Record" by Marsha Cohen and Bruce Bettigole, I enjoyed meeting those two imaginative spirits.

As lunchtime was drawing nigh and I hoped to avoid the stampede, I barked farewell to my friends and dashed for the nearest exit.

"What's all the commotion?" I asked upon entering the Blue and White home room.

"Why, haven't you heard?" questioned Leone. "The first editions of the '57 yearbook have arrived."

Rushing in our direction, Carol exclaimed, "The senior pictures look wonderful! Come see them."

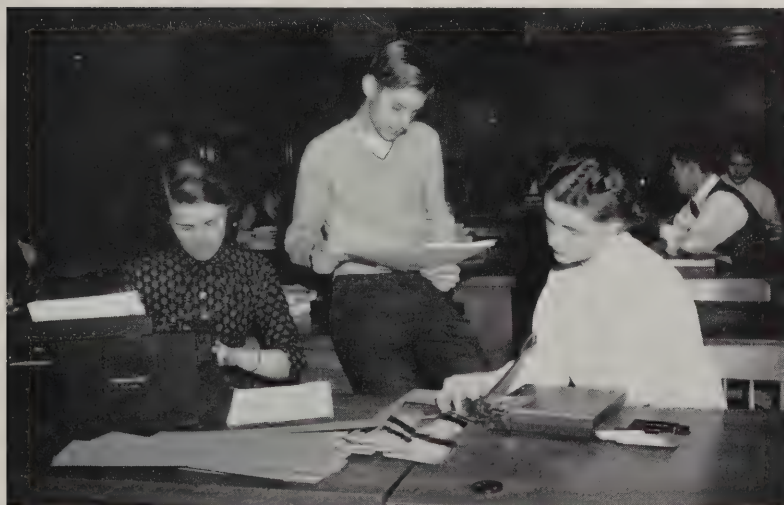

Peering over Marty's shoulder, I saw my friend the bulldog gazing ferociously at me from the cover over which Timmy had slaved so laboriously. I had only a glimpse, however, because John and Bill elbowed in to see their sections. Using football tactics, I finally reached my goal, the yearbook. Clutching it tightly, I scampered under Judy's desk to look at the girls' sport section. Bob and Ed quickly discovered my niche, and I was then surrounded by the staff members exultant over their handiwork. I heard Miss Boylan heave a sigh of relief and knew that she had not yet dared to think of next year's book. Having just heard the news, Barbara and Joan hurried into 122. In their flurry, they tripped over Wayne and Denny who were struggling for possession of The Blue and White. As I listened for a moment to the eager chatter swirling about me, I heard—"Do you remember the day we forgot to notify the photographer of the picture appointment?"

"Remember when we lost the copy for . . ."

"I never thought I'd finish that . . ."

"Weren't those hectic days?"

"Oh yes, I knew I would always remember this year—1957."

Planning the general layout are Carol, Ed, and Leone.

STRING ORCHESTRA

Wandering into the assembly hall one bright Monday morning, I came upon the String Orchestra directed by Mr. Warren Amerman. Perking up my big brown and white ears, I heard them practicing for an assembly. When Mr. Amerman noticed me sitting by the piano, he came over to me and patted my head, asking what I wanted. I asked Mr. Amerman if he would tell me about the String Orchestra. He said they had played at several school assemblies, and they had been asked to play for the Agawam Women's Club. The group gave a concert, with the band, for the public on February 18, 1957. The String Orchestra also took part in the operetta, "The Mikado".

This instrumental group consisting of boys and girls from all three classes is a great tribute to Classical High School. ## BAND

The Band is the other instrumental group besides the String Orchestra at Classical, Mr. O'Keefe, director, told me as I interviewed him during a band rehearsal.

I stamped my left front paw on the floor, in time to the music, as they played a rousing march for my enjoyment. After the march, Mr. O'Keefe told me the band had a concert with the String Orchestra in February, and they had played at several junior high school concerts. They also had played during American Education Week and the first chair wind players played with the String Orchestra in "The Mikado". The small nine piece pep band alternated with the regular Band at several basketball games.

SMALL "PEP" BAND

Showing real school spirit, this small group helps to boost our "will to win" at basketball games. Harold Childs, Steve Burati, John Alifano, Carol Jennings, Everett Webb, Milton Benjamin, Clarke Converse, Ronald Burke, Norman Metzler.

MADRIGAL

Arf, arf, arf, are you wondering why I'm barking so loud? The Madrigal group just finished running through a Calypso Christmas carol. It was wonderful!

Mr. Amerman, who directs the Madrigal group, told me that this is the top choral group of the school. They were in the Christmas Concert and sing during the Christmas week on the television program "Highlights for Western Massachusetts." The group performed at many assemblies and for many church and civic organizations. Most of the leads for "The Mikado" were from the Madrigal group.

In order to be a member of the Choir one must have an audition. These are the students that were chosen to be in the group.

CHOIR

"Mi-ya sa-ma, mi-ya sa-ma." Was a course in Japanese being offered at Classical? No, only a Gilbert and Sullivan Operetta, The Mikado. During the third period from January to May the choir was heard practicing for the spring production. The choir, the largest of the musical groups at Classical has seventy enthusiastic members who look forward to their daily sessions with Mr. Amerman. On my occasional visits to room 101, I received overwhelming attentions from the class. I learned that the choir had participated in several assemblies, in the Christmas Concert, and was the foundation of the graduation chorus.

MALE CHORUS

Before class, the boys in the Male Chorus were standing around the piano, either singing, or talking to each other. One of those big manly seniors patted my head as I sat on the piano bench.

When I asked him about the Male Chorus, he told me it was made up of boys from tenth to twelfth grade, who have never had music before. These boys joined the boys of the Madrigal group and the Choir to form a large Male Chorus for concerts. They participated in the Christmas Concert and "The Mikado".

GIRLS' CHORUSES

Today I'm not alone. Two of the fellows from my home town are visiting me, Tommy, an Irish Setter and Beauty, a bulldog. I invited them down to Classical to meet my friend, Mr. Amerman.

When the boys asked him about the girls' groups, the Upper Girls' Chorus and the Freshman Girls' Chorus, he told them that the two groups were the beginning groups for any girl who hadn't had music before. They were in the Christmas Concert and "The Mikado".

After hearing a song, the boys and I left very impressed.

SENATE

Ever since I was a little pup, I had heard the Senate mentioned as an integral part of Classical High School. For this reason I trotted up to room 305 one Wednesday to discover for myself what type of club this ancient and honored organization is. To my great pleasure, I discovered that it consists of a group of enthusiastic young students who spend every other Wednesday afternoon debating the pros and cons of current topics of world interest. After further investigation, I was informed that at the beginning of the year a few Senate members were present at the New England Debate Conference at Cushing Academy. Also numbered among the activities for 1957 were the annual Senate debate and the debate with Pierides. During the course of the year, many provocative subjects were discussed. I also found out that, Mr. Bernard Donnelly, the adviser of the Senate guided the activities which provided the members of this year great pleasure and enlightenment as well giving them the opportunity of expressing their opinions on many different issues. The Officers of the Senate for 1957 have been Robert Glass, president; Steven Metz, vice-president; Bruce Heafitz, secretary; Ronald Woodland, member-at-large.

PIERIDES

As I was trotting through the halls of Classical High School one Wednesday night, I was startled by a seemingly violent argument that issued from room 124. Much to my delight, however, I discovered that it was a meeting of that hospitable club, Pierides Alpha, whose members were debating a topic of current interest. I knew that this organization possessed a firmly established reputation for being one of the finest clubs in Classical because of its successful achievements. The members of this debating society for freshmen, junior, and senior girls, besides carrying on formal debates, also hold literary discussions and sponsor speakers. Having been ushered inside by the smiling girls, I was informed that some of the highlights of the year were the Pierides Poetry Contest, the Christmas Party, and the annual debate with the Senate. With the invaluable aid of their adviser, Dr. Aileen O'Grady, I could easily see that this organization was well on its way to another successful and well-rounded year. The officers for 1957 have been: Irene Vekshin, president; Carol Riner, vice-president; Lois Blitzer, secretary-treasurer.

CAROUSEL

About three o'clock each afternoon when the raucous shouts of the fleeing students had subsided, I usually retired to a secluded corner for a little nap. One day in January, however, I found that instead of ceasing, the noise increased. Deciding to track down the cause of the disturbance, I questioned one of the "lookers-on" and learned that it was one of the annual rehearsals of the Carousel. Forgetting my annoyance, I journeyed to the auditorium and was soon engrossed in the plot of the Carousel. I found myself clapping enthusiastically for "The Happy Medium," a story of three old ladies who completely dominated their millionaire brother. Much to their chagrin, however, at his death, he left his fortune to two young lovers, Joe and Sophia. Hearing that the sisters might attempt to contest the will, Joe and Sophia, arranged a seance to communicate with the brother, Phil N. Thropic, played by William Duquette. The outcome was happy, of course, as Joe and Sophia, played by Michael Cohen and Agnes Biscotti retained the money. Carol Cruess, Carol Riner, and Judith Stark were entertaining as the three sisters. Gilbert Black, as Lawyer Peabody, again delighted his audience with a hilarious performance. In a far corner of the auditorium I saw two gentlemen, weighted with sheaves of paper, heads in hand. They were, I discovered, Mr. Warren Amerman, musical director, and Mr. Bernard Donnelly, dramatic coach. Theirs was a tremendous task, but as usual they whipped the cast into fine shape. Hearing some lively strains of music, I rushed to the stage to watch the choreographers, Wanda Shuttert and Marlene Smigelski, demonstrating dance steps to the chorus line. I later found out that the entire credit for their beautiful costumes belonged to Miss Porter who had worked untiringly for their completion. Hurriedly I jumped to the floor as the busy members of the stage crew whirled by with huge pieces of scenery balanced nonchalantly. I enjoyed the Carousel rehearsals more than I had realized, however, for when the auditorium was empty, after the last performance, I discovered that I actually missed the clamor.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

As I entered room 314 one day, I was cheerfully greeted by a group of twenty one students who make up Student Government.

Besides sponsoring an exchange program, whereby classes here at Classical exchange work material with classes at College Technique De-Jeunes Filles', the Student Government exchanged a school day with students at Brookline High School. The 1957 production of Carousel was also supported by Student Government. S. G. also directs student elections and the activities of the student treasury.

Officers are elected each half year. During the first half of this year Susan Burack served as president; Steven Metz, vice-president; Barbara Har-metz, secretary; Marsha Cohen, treasurer; and Robert Glass, parliamentarian. At mid-year Steven Metz became president; Robert Glass, vice-presi-dent; Marsha Cohen, secretary; and Barbara Har-metz, treasurer.

P.T.S.A.

Even though a collie is a rare sight in Classical High School, it didn't stop me from being knocked over one day by a crowd of parents making their way to the second floor. Wondering where this group of grown-ups might be headed, I followed them to the library. Upon entering, I was surprised to find faculty members, parents, and students chatting cheerily. When I inquired what type of meeting this might be, I discovered that I was present at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher-Student Association. It was apparent at the moment that Classical was one of the few high schools fortunate enough to have a parent teacher association with students as part of the organization. This representation of the pupil tends to bring about a clearer understanding of the problems arising among teachers, parents, and the student body. I later found out that some of the activities sponsored by the P.T.S.A. were the college conferences at which Dr. Rodeheaver was present, the Parent's Night in November, the rummage sale, the Christmas Concert at which Dr. Chatto's portrait was presented, the Activities Night, the food sale, the P.T.S.A. Scholarships, and the discussion of reading problems. With this long list of achievements, the P.T.S.A. has upheld its reputation for being one of the most active organizations in Classical, and has fulfilled its goal of making the year of 1957 as profitable as it has been full.

STUDENT PATROLS

Honestly, I don't know how dogs like me could ever get around Classical High School without the aid of the student patrols. The Girls' Patrol, consisting of trustworthy, courteous girls, who are leaders in their class, provides valuable services to all of us throughout the building. The girls keep order in the girls' room, help supervise the lunchroom, control traffic on the stairs during lunch periods, and give assistance whenever needed. I know from experience the new members who replace the seniors who are leaving must be highly recommended by their teachers. Under the guidance of their adviser, Miss Ruth Shaffer, the girls' patrol has rendered invaluable service to the school in this year of 1957.

The members of the Boys' Patrol are familiar to everyone in Classical High School. Even I know that, advised by Mr. Donald Campbell, they perform many services for the students. Besides maintaining order in the lunchroom, they direct traffic on the stairways. They also have the master key available to anyone who needs it. They perform other special duties assigned to them. I soon discovered that each year a group of students are nominated for the patrol by their homeroom teachers, and a few out of this number are elected to the patrol.

OFFICERS OF I. R. C.

are Carol Cruess, Rochelle Solin, and Diane Drude.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

While passing by room 218 one fourth period on Friday, I became inquisitive about the lowered shades and closed doors. Upon investigating further, however, I discovered it was only the International Relations Club showing one of its informative films on foreign lands. Twice each month, this club, the largest organization in Classical, assembles to learn about world affairs. Some of the interesting meetings this year included a talk by a student from India, a lecture by Mr. Hargreaves on Psychological Warfare, and slides of the Quakers' trip to Russia. I also found out that, in addition to completing several worthwhile projects, such as the collection of mittens for European children, and the collection of magazines for European universities, the International Relations Club also sponsored a trip to the United Nations. The officers for this year have been Carol Cruess, president; Rochelle Solin, vice-president; Diane Drude, secretary; Ralph Guertin, treasurer; and Susan Burack, program chairman. With the aid of Mr. Corbin, their adviser, the International Relations Club can certainly be proud of its achievements.

SCIENCE CLUB

THE SCIENCE CLUB

Every other Wednesday, without fail, twangs, crashes, and other assorted noises could be heard throughout the corridors of the third floor. Being fed up with this disturbance, I finally made up my mind to see if I couldn't in some way, stop it. I soon discovered the jumble of noises originated in room 324. Cautiously, I opened the door and discovered, much to my surprise, a group of young men concocting solutions, twanging turning forks, and using all types of science equipment, with the sole purpose, as I thought at the time, of making noise. After I had been kindly ushered in, however, I discovered the students were really young boys experimenting to prove or disprove certain theories of science. Looking at a contraption that rose almost to the ceiling, I was ambling backwards when I bumped into a teacher with his arms full of all sorts of mechanisms. When I heard him say, "Blast your beady eyes," I knew at once it had to be Mr. Lynch, the adviser of the Science Club. I soon learned from this amiable man that the chief purpose of this club was to prepare projects for the annual Science Fair which is held each year at the end of March. I also learned the officers of the Science Club for 1957 were Robert Holmes, president; Roy Wright, vice-president; Edward Harrison, secretary; Gilbert Black, member-at-large.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

Sporting proudly my Red Cross button, I am glad, in this way, to inform the world that I am a member of that great humanitarian organization, the Red Cross. One day I decided to find out how members of the Junior Red Cross of Classical High School are represented. In gathering information, I discovered that interesting and informative meetings of the Junior Red Cross Council are held each month. At these meetings, the projects for the year are discussed. I further found out that the first activity which the council undertook this year was the annual fund-raising drive in which Classical reached its goal. The decorating of an Army hospital and the packing of gift boxes were other projects included in the program for 1957 under the guidance of Miss Marston, adviser. The council has numbered many achievements in the program for this year. The officers of the 1956-1957 council have been Alexander Zurowski, president; Betty Lou Cook, secretary; Patricia Dyer, vice-president; William Duquette, treasurer.

STAMP AND COIN CLUB

One Tuesday afternoon, while passing room 114, I was surprised to find a large silver coin rolling down the corridor towards me with a student in hot pursuit of it. When I had stopped the disc under my paw, I discovered it was a 1911 silver dollar. Seeing that I was interested in his old coin, the boy informed me he was a member of the Stamp and Coin Club and invited me to the meeting that was just about to start.

Trotting around to the different knots of students discussing stamps or coins, I enjoyed myself immensely. Before I knew it, I was caught up in the informal atmosphere of this club, where I joined in the lively and interesting discussions. Much to my surprise, I soon discovered my paws full of stamps. I did my best to discover what countries they might have come from. I later found out that at the first meeting of the year, Joseph Brusnicki was elected president; Lawrence Johnson, vice-president; and Roy Wright, member-at-large.

CHESS CLUB

I was enjoying my first rest after a hectic day when I was awakened by such cries as "Hah," "Got Ya," "Check," "Oh, No," "J'adoube" and "Checkmate." Soon I had traced the noise to Mr. Jermakian's room, when much to my amazement, I discovered that it was the chess club that was making all this racket. In this way, I discovered how exciting and engrossing a game of Chess can be if played properly, for I had never seen such a group of joyous faces in my life. Finding out more about the club, I discovered that, with the guidance of their adviser, Mr. Jermakian, the Classical Chess Club of 1957 had become one of the most active organizations in Classical. Many "firsts" were included in the program for this year. This was the first time in the history of the club that dues were instituted; this was the first time that the club played schools outside of the immediate vicinity of Springfield; and the first time that the club had an adviser. After a lively discussion with the members, I was informed that under the leadership of Ralph Guertin, president; William Tinti, vice-president; and John Alifano, secretary-treasurer, the club had been able to make much progress. Some of the highlights of the year were the meets with Mount Hermon Academy and Worcester Classical High School. Of course, the club also profited by its annual meet with the Springfield Men's Chess Club and the Technical High School Club.

MAKING

up the nucleus of the Bulldog Savings Bank are Mr. Robert Cross, George Korczyk, Miss Elizibeth Gerry, and Everett Webb.

BULLDOG SAVINGS BANK

The center of frugal students in Classical High School is the Bulldog Saving Bank. Functioning much like a mutual savings bank, the Bulldog Savings Bank serves both the faculty and student body. Because it is a Junior Achievement Company sponsored by the Springfield Institution for Savings, the Bank is run entirely by students of Classical. The advisers, appointed by the Springfield Institution for Savings, teach banking procedures to the achievers and try to promote systematic saving among the student body at Classical High School. Included in the program for this year was a sales contest in which the members of the bank tried to encourage the opening of new accounts. The Bank also put on a counterfeit money display, and the students tried their skill in determining the authenticity of the separate bills.

With 469 accounts and over twenty thousand dollars on deposit, the Bank is well on its way to a third successful year. The officers this year have been J. Everett Webb, president; Brenda Clancey, vice-president; Lois Blitzler, secretary; George Korczyk, treasurer; Barbara Pottern, trustee.

PHOTOGRAPHY

ART AND PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

The Art and Photography Club of Classical High School is noted for its informality and friendliness. This year the members organized and ran the mistletoe sale for the purpose of buying equipment for the club. Included in the field trips were visits to station W.W.L.P., to Standard Photo Service, and to the Brown Studios. The club bulletin, "Art, Photography, and T.V. News" includes information about the club, and the art students of Classical. The officers for this year are Ricardo deGrace, president; Patricia Lamathe, treasurer; Gail Beaudoin, secretary; Diane Lindquist and William White, Activity Chairmen. Through the aid of their adviser, Miss Doris MacKenzie, the Art and Photography Club has completed another successful year.

THE YEAR CHEERLEADERS ARE

CHEERLEADERS

This year the cheerleaders have been very busy practicing and making up our new cheers. I was a little bit sorry that I was not a bulldog as I sat and listened to the different cheers. However, I enjoyed watching Jackie and the girls going through their cheers. Once in a while Miss Mende would come out of her office and suggest something to them, but all in all the girls did most of the work alone. Then, too, this year we have a new addition, the "Pep Squad," made up of a group of girls interested in cheering our teams on to victory.

The girls spend part of their free time such as home room periods and Friday fourth period working out cheers. They along with the substitutes, Mary Donovan, Laurie Betz, and Donna Jones, really deserve much of the credit. And I say three "arfs" for them!

STUDENT LEADERS

This perky group of girls is known as Student Leaders. Now I know that sounds like "doglatin" to you but just listen to what they do. These girls help Miss Mende and Mrs. Andrews organize groups in the gym classes. They also help mark the girls in skill tests and are in general "junior teachers."

These girls are picked from the senior class for their outstanding leadership, citizenship, and scholarship in addition to their physical ability. The day I came down to the Girl's Gym to take this picture I had more attention than any other dog in all of Springfield.

for this year are Row 1: Alice Makara, Pam McQuillan, Dona Rodenhizer, Dorothy Moran; Row 2: Bonnie Davis, Susan Brown, Judi Seat, Carol Jennings, and Jill Howes.

G.A.A.

One day as I walked into the girls' gym, I saw an announcement reading: "G.A.A. meeting first homeroom period today." This announcement sounded interesting, and since I had first homeroom period free, I attended. When I walked into the gym, all the girls rushed over to pat me. I was very happy to be accepted so fast. Finally the president, Pam McQuillan, called the meeting to order. The secretary, Timmy Pierce, read the minutes of the last meeting. A discussion on the number of credits necessary to become a member followed. It was decided that ten credits were needed to become a member of the G.A.A. Every time a girl attends an after school sport, she receives one credit. If by the end of the year, she has earned twenty points, she is awarded a small C. She must earn thirty points before she receives a large C.

The Broomstick Ball was a pleasant substitute for the usual freshie day which was abandoned this year. At this first informal dance of the season the members of the class of 1959 were welcomed.

The officers of the G.A.A. who have carried the year to a successful close are Pamela McQuillan, president; Dorothy Moran, vice-president; Timmy Pierce, secretary; and Alice Makara, treasurer.

BROOMSTICK BALL

This year, freshie day was omitted. The G.A.A. did, however, hold a Broomstick Ball in October. The turnout was fairly large and everyone enjoyed himself. As for me, I enjoyed the cider and doughnuts.

TENNIS

While I was walking through Forest Park one Tuesday afternoon this fall with some of my doggie pals, we met Mrs. Andrewes with a group of girls playing what they called tennis. Because the game looked like fun, I asked about it. Mrs. Andrewes told us that she and the girls came to play every Tuesday and Thursday. Although there was no competition, I am sure the girls had fun.

FIELD HOCKEY

"Ground, sticks, ground, sticks, ground, sticks, hit!" This seems to be the hockey chant. One Monday I sat on the Armory lawn talking to some of my doggie pals when all of a sudden a group of girls came running up the hill with some funny looking sticks. When we saw Miss Mende, we decided we weren't being invaded. While talking to Miss Mende, I learned that these girls practiced every Monday and Wednesday. I also found out that at the play day we beat Commerce, tied Technical, but lost to Longmeadow.

APPARATUS

This winter a group of girls went to the gym every Monday and perfected the stunts they learned in their gym classes. When I walked into the girls' gym one afternoon, I saw girls swinging through the air on flying rings and girls jumping over boxes, bucks, and swinging on the ladders. This swinging and jumping frightened me a little bit. After all I am only a dog. It was rather strange to see human beings in such positions. The girls were practicing for interclass meet which was held during December. Five teachers from Springfield junior high schools were judges. Each class had a team of four girls who performed required and optional vaults. The seniors won; freshmen came in second; and juniors, third.

"Sentenced to hang?" Judy Finn.

"Keep those legs straight!" Donna Jones vaults horse; Dottie Johnson spots.

BASKETBALL

"Arf, arf, arf. Just look at all those girls," I said to myself as I entered the girls' gym one Monday afternoon. "What is happening?" Just then I saw Mrs. Andrewes and Miss Mende and inquired of them what was going on. They told me that these girls came out every Monday and Wednesday to practice for the round robin tournament and the interschool basket ball tournament that was held at Technical High School. Two teams represented Classical. The tenth grade team placed first in competition at that grade level.

ICE SKATING

"Smooth o'er the ice; just look at all the girls on skates," I said to myself as I walked into the Coliseum one Wednesday afternoon. Girls from Classical, Commerce, and Tech were skating together. Everyone enjoyed herself. Miss Mende even put on a pair of skates and joined in the fun.

BOWLING

Every Thursday this winter Mrs. Andrewes and eight teams of girls and boys went to the Chestnut Bowling Alleys. They competed in an intramural round robin tournament. The winner was "Vermont." The members were presented with trophies donated by the bowling alleys. On March 27 I bounded into the Chestnut Alleys to find two teams of girls from Classical competing in an interschool tournament. Team two won first place with a total pin fall of 1036. Team one was second with 1034.

BASEBALL

The 1956 Classical Baseball Team tallied a record of four wins, nine losses. Among the top players were Robert Romejko, John Edgerly, Kenneth Cole, Ronald Liberatori, and William Fortier. Although the team won only four games, the players displayed sportsmanship and spirit at all times. As most of the team will return next year, we shall look forward to a better record next season.

GOLF 1956

The 1956 Classical Golf Team ended its season with a record of ten wins, three losses, and one tie, the home links being Franconia Golf Course. Classical was fortunate in having several star golfers, such as John Prothero, Robert Bontempo, and David Barry, who helped greatly in bringing about this commendable record.

Coach Henry Batt informed this bulldog that he expects to have a good team next season even though only three men of the original team are returning.

FOOTBALL — 1956

This last football season was most enjoyed by Billy Bulldog. I watched the team put forth a winning season with a record of 4 wins, 3 losses. The Classical attack led by such All City stars as Jim Catron, Bill Fortier, John LaLima, and Ronnie Liberatori, was ably supported by a well balanced team. I believe much praise is due to Coach Batt who, despite the handicap of a small, unexperienced squad, built the team up to the power it is.

HOCKEY

The 1957 Classical hockey season proved to be very interesting to Billy Bulldog. The team tallied a winning season of eight wins, four losses, and two ties, and received fourth place honors in the interschool league. The key men on the team were Paul Beck and John Edgerly. The strong supporting team consisted of Dave Cruikshank, Lenny Cotter, Marty Fairley, Ronnie Liberatori, Jon Vining, Ken Cole, and Bill Dupont. With these men, Classical fought its way to the playoff by breaking the tie for fourth place with Trade. However, they lost the third place bid against Cathedral. Coach Peterson informed the Bulldog that Classical will have a well rounded team next season.

The team, aided by such stars as Leo Best, George Blake, Sid Weber, Bill Wallach and John Johnson, sunk basket after basket to outscore our opponents. Although much of the starting team will not be here next year, Coach Vaughn expects to have an equally strong team next season.

“Bank Day” at the Bulldog Savings Bank, a Junior Achievement Company, provides the opportunity for Classical High School students to save ahead for the things they need and want.

But the need for saving does not end with graduation. How you handle your money will play an important part in your happiness, for if you spend unwisely, you will find your money gone and your real goals still unattained.

Make this important decision now — that you will save regularly. Bulldog bank books may always be used at any S.I.S. office, or we will be glad to open a new book if you have none.
